REPORT FROM THE MIKADO

Manager Macmillan Submits His Annual Report to Shareholders.

We take the following excerpts from Manager Macmillan's annual report to his company, a copy of which has been handed to us by a local shareholder in the Mikado Gold Mining Company, Limited:

MANAGER'S REPORT.

I herewith beg to submit my report of the mine and works for the year ending December 31st, 1901.

The operations this year have been carried out with unusual vigor, and are unique in that the development work is 25 to 40% more than has ever been accomplished in any similar period in the history of the mine, while the total expenditure is less by the enormous sum of nearly $50,000.

This large saving which has been made without impairing the work in any respect may be traced to various sources.

Firstly to the new plant installed a year ago, saving, as it did, the sum of $4,000 on fuel alone, and a considerable sum in labor; secondly, to the continual care exercised over each department; and, lastly, to the general method of letting contracts, reducing labor and costs in all sections of underground work.

During the year, a total of 1,710 feet of development has been carried out—namely, 601 feet of sinking, 1,018 feet of drifting, and 91 feet of up-raising. In addition to this, [illegible] cubic feet of reef has been stoped.

The reduction in the cost of treating the tailings is in the disposal of the sands after treatment. These are now sluiced out by the water pumped from the mine, thus doing away with the labor of three men, and discarding cars altogether. Our improved treatment in this department has [illegible] the extraction from [illegible] over previous years.

The entire development carried on this year has been on the vein, [illegible] new levels having been opened up, all of which follow the ore shoot. As you are aware, the ore body averages its length from 50 to 150 feet, with a depth of about 70 feet on a vein 4 feet wid. It is now easy to work along the pay shoot, otherwise we could never keep the mill running on pay ore, for even now, in spite of energetic development we sometimes have little more than four or five weeks' ore ahead, and selent dip, it will strike No. 3 vein at a vertical depth of about 750 feet. We believe, however, that the east and west vein, No. 3, is the main reef on the property, and that No. 1 vein, which we are now working, is only an arm of the larger vein to the south.

The property is undoubtedly a good one, the chances of continuation and improvement in depth were never better, and we hope the prospecting now carried on will prove the existence of a large and permanent body of ore.

The number of men employed is 49, being a reduction of 19 on the previous year, and it is an interesting fact that not a few have been here since the commencement of operations, while not one has been on the pay roll less than six months.

Yours faithfully,
N. MACMILLAN,
Manager.

CECIL RHODES IS DEAD.

The Great African Imperialist Breathes His Last.

Cape Town, March 26.—Cecil Rhodes died today.

Mr. Rhodes died peacefully at 5.57 p m. He slept during the afternoon but his breathing became more difficult and his strength perceptibly diminished until he passed away.

Cecil John Rhodes was born at Bishop-Stratford, England, on July 5, 1853, and was consequently in the prime of life. At the age of 16 he went to live with an elder brother in Natal. When the rush to the Kimberley fields began the two Rhodeses were among the first pioneers. METALS DEARER THAN GOLD

Modern Artillery Needs, Platinum and Irridium.

Some people are under the impression that the now fairly familiar whitish metal, platinum, is one of the few substances more expensive than that fascinating yellow material we spend so great a portion of our lives in hunting.

This, however, is not so, even allowing that, bulk for bulk, platinum is hardly less than twice as heavy as gold. At the rate of $20 per troy ounce, gold is worth nearly $225 a ft., platinum only $100.

If, though, you were the fortunate possessor of a lump of platinum equal in bulk to a pound of gold, the silvery, looking bulk would be worth, not $100 but $175, for platinum, if not the dearest, is the heaviest thing on earth.

Three times as costly and practically as heavy is that wonderful metal iridium, known to the users of gold nibbed pens as furnishing the intensely hard, noncorrodible silvery points. Pure iridium is priced at $300 per oz., and is so heavy relatively that this weight of it would be in bulk rather larger than half the size of a pound of gold.

Yet the so-called "iridium" points of a gold nib are not of pure iridium, but of a natural blend of iridium and another rare metal, osmium. This blend is found in the form of scales flattened some of a pin-head shape—in localities where placer gold is not.

Of these "iridosmine" scales the pin-head type alone is suitable for pen points, and does not exceed a fifth of the entire yearly find, which may average three and a half to four ounces per ton of gold obtained.

Of the pin-head scales [illegible] do not weigh more than an ounce, and are worth about $250. Pure iridium is alloyed with platinum to make the closing faces of the breechblocks for modern artillery, this compound being the only thing that will stand the corrosion of the gases and the enormous heat—about 4,000 degrees centigrade. Over a thousand rounds have been fired from a trial gun without the vent showing the slightest sign of wear.

For pure osmium there is not a great deal of use, except in chemistry, so its rarity drives up the price to $60 an ounce, $720 a troy pound. At a temperature of 900 degrees centigrade this singular metal vaporizes and gives off a gas which stings the eyes severely.

rs altogether. Our improved treatment in this department has increased the extraction from 5 to 10 over previous years.

The entire development carried out this year has been on the vein, four new levels having been opened up, all of which follow the ore shoot. As you are aware, the ore body averages in length from 50 to 150 feet, with a depth of about 40 feet on a vein 2 feet wide. It is necessary to work along the pay shoot, otherwise we could never keep the mill running on pay ore, for, even now, in spite of energetic development we sometimes have little more than four or five weeks' ore ahead, and seldom more than five or six months. Today we have ore enough developed to keep the mill running five or six months. It is more patchy and of a lower grade than was expected in the early part of the year, and although the amount of gold recovered during the period under review is disappointing, it has simply been owing to the fact that the vein, which continued with such regularity during the previous two or three years, has not been of the same size or richness in the levels recently opened up.

During diamond drilling operations, which have been carried out at points 1,100 and 1,700 feet south of the first tongue of granite, a second dyke of a similar nature and of about equal dimensions was discovered running nearly parallel to the first. About 200 feet south of this there is a large vein, No. 3, from 6 to 12 feet wide at the surface, traversing the country east and west, and dipping toward the north. This vein has been tapped by the diamond drill at a vertical depth of 125 feet, and showed 6 feet of quartz and 14 feet of vein matter, the country rock being a hornblendic schist on the hanging or north side, and quartzite on the footwall or south side. This, however, is only an extensive capping on the surface, and if the second tongue of granite dips parallel to the first, it should strike No. 3 vein at a somewhat lower level than the bore hole above mentioned; and again, if the first tongue of granite continues at its pres-famous De Beers Mining company which had a capital of $1,000,000. Under his guidance the De Beers company absorbed the many other companies that had been formed one by one until in 1880 every diamond mining company in Kimberly was incorporated in the De Beers Consolidated Mines, Limited, which had a capital of $19,750,000.

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

On Tuesday, April 1st, there will be presented in the Opera House one of the most interesting entertainments it is possible to imagine—a drama performed by Indian boys who are being civilized and Christianized at the Industrial school. The affair is being looked forward to by prominent citizens with great interest, and it is expected that the Opera House will be packed to the doors by a curious crowd of people eager to note what the effect of a few years of training will be upon the child of the forest whose fathers were pagans for a thousand years. The Indian boys will be assisted by the pupils from St. Joseph's Academy who are the embodiment of refinement and culture and who should present a striking sociological antithesis to the sons of the Ojibbeway. The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the management of the Industrial school which is maintained largely by voluntary subscriptions from the people of Rat Portage.

Dr. Laird, of Manitoba university, gave a demonstration of wireless telegraphy in Winnipeg on Wednesday.

The Manitoba prohibition convention has opened in Winnipeg. There was some lively discussion.

Over a thousand rounds have been fired from a trial gun without the vent showing the slightest sign of wear.

For pure osmium there is not a great deal of use, except in chemistry, yet its rarity drives up the price to $50 an ounce, $500 a troy pound. At a temperature of 100 degrees centigrade this singular metal vaporizes and gives off a gas which stains the experimenter's skin a permanent black, and which may blind him by depositing a film of the metal on the eyeball.

Rhodium is another of the precious metals belonging to what is known as the "platinum" group. It is one of the hardest metals to melt and will only yield to the electric arc or the oxyhydrogen lime furnace. It can be used, like iridium, for pointing gold pens. Its cost figures out to $125 a pound, but at that it is a trifle lighter than gold when taken bulk for bulk.

The curiously named metal "paladium" stands at $375 per pound, and in appearance is of a silver-white to steel gray. One per cent. of it makes gold brittle and yellowish white, 20% turns the compound quite white. The air has no influence whatever upon paladium, nor does it tarnish in sulphuric gases. For these reasons it is used in alloy with gold for the finely graduated scales of valuable astronomical instruments. If, instead of a silver currency, we employ any of these almost incredibly costly metals—supposing we could get enough of them, which would be difficult—our ideas of value would undergo a sudden change.

An iridium dime, without looking any different, would be worth $2.50, and an osmium one would have an exchangeable value of twice the amount. Small change in either metal would have to be made by an expert.

MAYOR CAMERON NOMINATED.

This morning at ten o'clock the Liberal convention of Fort William and Lake of the Woods constituency was opened in Nicholson's hall. There were present eight delegates from Fort William whose names are as follows:

Dr. Hamilton, Jas. Murphy, Thos. B. Kelly, Hugh Piper, A. Snedgrove, E. A. Morton, John McLaurin and James Munro. From Dryden there were Dr. Blair and A. E. Hutchison; and from Wabigoon A. B. McFarlane and Jas. Osborne.

There was [illegible] or verifying pass, as it seemed a foregone conclusion that [illegible] this end would be observed. For Fort Williamites came up to support their own nominee Dr. Hamilton providing no man from Lake of the Woods rode into the lists, but were evidently pre

ANOTHER HAPPY MOTHER.

Tells How Her Baby Of Eight Months Profited by Wise Treatment.

Teething time is the critical age in a child's life. Any slight disorder in the stomach or bowels at that time greatly increases the peevishness of the little one and may have serious and even fatal results. It is impossible to take too great care of your baby's health during this period, and no better remedy than Baby's Own Tablets is known for the minor ailments of childhood. Among the mothers who have proved the worth of this medicine is Mrs. R. McMaster, Cookstown, Ont. Her little baby girl was suffering from the combined trails of indigestion, constipation and teething, and mother's strength was severely tax by the continuous care the child ne ed. A box of Baby's Own Tabl however, made such an improvem that Mrs. McMaster is now enthusiastic in their praise. "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the value Baby's Own Tablets," she writes. "My baby of eight months was troubled with constipation and indigestion, and was very restless at night. I procured a box of Baby's Own Tablets, and the results were so satisfactory that I have not used any other medicine since. My baby girl is now regular and healthy and getting her teeth seems [illegible] easier, and she rests a great deal better. These Tablets are a great help to little ones when teething.

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. They produce natural sleep because they regulate the stomach and bowels and comfort the nerves. They promptly cure such troubles as colic, sour stomach, constipation, diarrhœa, worms, indigestion and simple fever. They break up colds, prevent croup and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. Dissolved in water they can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. THE WATER RATES.

The town council at their last meeting gave the final reading to a bylaw which establishes a new schedule of rates for water consumers. The new scale of charges revises the old rating for all round, and it is expected this will cover the cost of production but not the sinking fund used in this instance to pay annually the principal and interest accruing due as the debenture coupons mature.

Since the passing of the old individualist and private monopoly clique from our municipal life, it has not been found necessary to combat in the press the usual flood of humbuggable and private corporation claptrap that was so common before the people studied the municipal ownership theory and the benefits of civic co-operation, so that it will only be necessary now to make a very few brief remarks on the subject of water supply.

There is no way to arrive at the actual cost of water except by figuring on the daily supply to put it right in the hands of the consumer. Water primarily costs nothing: it a waterman or other lays drives his cart down to the lake he could take all the water he could without paying one cent for it. And yet he charged the consumer a dollar per barrel for the water, and the people never complained about the price. That was because the water cost them knew that he was not charged for the water itself but for the labor expended in its transportation. It got took a man who could earn 25 cents per hour just sixty minutes to procure a pail of water, that pail of water would be worth 25 cents.

The same figure along the same lines, on the more complex proposition of providing the people with water at actual cost, and at the same time paying an equitable amount upon all the citizens for the installation of the system. It was found, however, under the old system of taxation that the ratepayers living on the outskirts of the ... only paying his just ... one dollar on the ... also taxed to pay ... is in the United States, working as a miner we believe, and if we are not at liberty to publish his name that all men might know him, we at least have the assurance that his deed is written in a book which we shall all read on the last day.

Census Figures Show Tremendous Growth in Suburban Districts—Female Population Increasing at a Disproportionate Rate.

Some notable figures are presented regarding the huge metropolis, London, in the official census report, which has just been issued. The census was completed on March ... 31, 1901, and shows that during the century there completed the population of London had increased ... 500,000, and now stands at 4,536,541. In the last ten years the increase was 368,221, but as the births over deaths in that period numbered 491,000, the only deduction are that the migration from the city in the meantime exceeded 100,000.

For the year ended March 31, the city of London shows a decline of 67,000, but greater London expanded at an enormous rate, the increase being 917,000, of which number the outlying districts furnished 630,000. FOR A MISER'S MONEY.

An Old Search Reveals Gold Coin in All Sorts of Places—Threepence in a Big Panel.

It was announced at a meeting of the Epsom Guardians that letters of administration in regard to the estate of William Batchelor, the octogenarian miser of Ewell, has been granted to Edwin Burgess of Gray's Inn Road, W.C.

No fewer than twenty-seven claimants to the property have put in an appearance. The board decided to retain £88, to defray the cost of the old man's maintenance and funeral, and the expense of searching and guarding his house, and to hand over the rest of his property to Mr. Burgess to-day.

The exterior of the old miser's house, which stands at the foot of Beggar's Hill, Ewell, on the Main Kingston Road, is quite in keeping with the sordid romance which was enacted within. It is a dilapidated wooden structure, with all the windows boarded up, and a great pile of old timber rotting by its side.

The house contained a sitting-room, three bedrooms, a kitchen, and a scullery, while attached to it are some old sheds.

When the searchers entered the cottage on Dec. 18, they found the ... floor strewn with a singular ... assortment of old nails, pots, ... kettles, carpenters' tools, and other articles. There was not a clear space of six inches to be seen anywhere.

The sitting-room doorway was filled up to within a few inches of the ceiling with old laths, taken from some stores belonging to Mr. Batchelor, which had been pulled down.

In the kitchen there were a few ... pictures, a grandfather's clock, two ... tables, a sideboard, and four cupboards. In recesses under the stairs several little drawers had been ... which were filled with ... nails.

"To the best of my memory," says Mr. Pearman, "about £150 was found ... under the mats, and about ... in old match boxes and the ... ers of the table and sideboard. ... we thought we had ... a ... of cash ... to the back bed ... talking ... £80 ... in old stocking ... of all ... and ... ers."

The Truth

Is told by most people. If it were not, the whole commercial and social fabric would fall to pieces. There are thousands upon thousands of people who testify to the cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. They are representative people in their communities. You would believe their word on any question of knowledge. They speak the simple truth when they testify that Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia, "weak" stomach and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures when all other remedial means have failed. It cures perfectly and permanently.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" it is free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good."

"I was a total wreck—could not eat or sleep," writes Mr. J. O. Beers, of Berryman, Crawford Co., Mo. "For two years I tried medicine from doctors, but received very little benefit. I lost flesh and strength, was not able to do a good day's work. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when I had taken one bottle I could sleep, and my appetite was wonderfully improved. I have taken five bottles and am still improving."

House Cleaning

The season of spring house cleaning has come upon us early and suddenly this year, but we are prepared with an immense and varied stock of the very latest and most beautiful class of WALL PAPERS. Drop me a card or call at the shop and you will find us prepared to give estimates. Remember that the only place in the district where a full stock of Wall Paper is carried is at population. If it took a man who could earn 25 cents per hour just sixty minutes to procure a pail of water, that pail of water would be worth 25 cents.

The second figure along the same lines, on the more complex proposition of providing the people with water at actual cost, and at the same time leaving an equitable amount upon all the citizens for the installation of the system. It was found, however, under the old system of taxation that the ratepayer living on the outskirts of the town was not only paying his just share to the debenture debt on the waterworks, but was also taxed to pay a part of the cost of the water production which was being used below actual cost by his more fortunate neighbor. If the ratepayer who cannot get the municipal water pays his share of the debenture debt he has a tangible asset to show for his outlay in the town's plant; but if water is being supplied to people below its actual cost, he would be unjustly called upon to help to make good the deficit thus caused every year; and this would be robbery, for he would be asked to not only pay his share of the debenture debt, and his private water bill, but also part of his neighbor's private water bill.

Without going into the important matter of fire protection, it may be stated that the council have done wisely in making this move to deal justly and equitably and without discrimination with every taxpayer in the municipality, and we believe that consumers and non-consumers of municipal water will join in giving the council every credit for their wisdom and sense of justice in arranging this matter on the basis down in By-law 106.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

Tales of black ingratitude and general crookedness are so common in our day that the mere recital of such incidents awaken no surprise and seldom any comment, for it seems to be tacitly acknowledged now, that human nature where it is not merely complex is in very many cases, purely bad. As illustrative of the rarity of genuine honesty it is only necessary to point to the world-wide interest that is taken in the story of a magnanimous man; the generous deed of a noble-minded; the rigid honesty of one who believes in justice and honor for their own sake. The newspaper accounts of Mark Twain struggling for years to earn enough—not get enough—to pay a debt that was not technically, but only morally obligatory upon him, made a story that was published and read in wonder by millions. And dare we publish details we might make another such story. It is of a man who was laid up in the Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken leg who was cured and discharged penniless. He went away and nothing was heard from him for a long time, but at last comes a letter to Secretary Pender enclosing a cheque for $100 as part payment of his moral obligation to the hospital. He

Max Muller's Schooldays.

When Professor Max Muller as a boy of twelve was put to school at Leipsic, as he relates in his autobiography, he had an old old teacher. Professor Muller says: "Before beginning his lesson he used to rub his spectacles and after looking round the half empty classroom mutter in a plaintive voice, 'I see again many boys who are not here to-day.' When the same old master began to lecture on physical science, he told the boys to bring a frog to be placed under a glass from which the air had been extracted by an air pump. Of course everyone of the twenty boys brought two or three frogs, and when the experiment was to be made all those frogs were hopping about in the lecture room, to the wild terror of boys who hoped to collect them next class and carry them home. No wonder the teaching was one of the master's most successful experiments, and when at last the glass globe was lifted up and we were told to look at the frog group was the one in which the boys whom the frog hoped to get and escaped from the hands of the would-be experimenter."

There Has Been a Falling Off.

There has been some falling off in the number of books printed in Great Britain in 1901, but there is no serious cause for alarm. According to the annual statement in The Publishers' Circular the total number of books published last year was 6,014, as compared with 7,149 the year before. There is a decrease of more than a thousand in the number of new books published, but the publishers' circular says that a great number of books are being published in parts, and that the total number of publications is not much less than in 1900. The publishers' circular has issued a list of all the books published during the year, and it includes a bibliography of the literature of the South African war of about 200 books in all. Of 50 books on theology, 30 are by clergymen of the Church of England, 12 by Nonconformists, and 8 by Roman Catholics. Of 512 books on fiction, 152 are by women.

Mr. [illegible] 25 Elgin St., [illegible], writes: "I suffered with [illegible] for upwards of ten years. The skin on my hands cracking and [illegible] so as to make them useless. After trying all sorts of remedies in vain, I became discouraged and thought my sufferings would never end. Last spring I used Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a short time was perfectly cured."

Mr. B. Nicholson, Manor House, Winnipeg, Man., states: "For several months I had been troubled with eczema on my ears, and for weeks I was afflicted with a prominent Winnipeg physician, but to no avail. I was induced by a fellow sufferer to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and am happy to say that the first application gave instant relief. I am completely cured, and have had no return of this troublesome disease."

There is no limit to the healing qualities of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is remarkably quick to relieve and positively cures each and every form of itching skin disease. 60 cts. a box, all dealers or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto.

USE OF THE POST CARD.

Britain Allows a Privilege Which the Canadian Regulations Forbid.

A correspondent of The London Times draws attention to an interesting point in connection with post cards. It appears that the word "only" has for some time been omitted from the injunction, "The address only to be written on this side." The impression is, however, still general that writing must still be necessarily restricted to the reverse side of the postcard. This is not the case, since, in reply to an inquiry, the secretary of the General Postoffice has written: "Any writing or printing on the address side of a postal packet should be confined to the left-hand half, the right-hand half being reserved exclusively for the address and postage stamps." This is a considerable concession, though we hope that the addressers of postcards will always take pains to lay the direction so be indelibly distinct from the writing or printing.

Lest anyone should regard the system in Britain as warrant to make similar use of postcards in Canada, it may be stated that the Dominion regulations allow no such liberty. Though the printed instructions of the Canadian postcard do not include the word "only," the act distinctly provides that the stamped side of the card shall be used for the address, "and for this purpose alone." A special business postcard is provided, the address side of which may contain printed advertising matter in a space set apart for that purpose.

The British Schoolboy on Animals.

A correspondent who offered prizes in different schools for essays on kindness to animals sends up a few extracts from the papers received:

"There are two kinds of animals and they are the quadruped and biped. The quadriped is lions and tigers and such like, and the biped is birds."

"Some people kick the poor dog and give it no food. Then the poor animal bites the first person it comes to, and this causes the person to have hidiphobery, and the animal gets killed. This is all through the people not giving the animal nothing to eat."

"No. 1 do not go to church because the pray. They never sit down to get a meal and we do."

"When a animal dies it is no more good except for food, or when we die we have a cremation."—Westminster Gazette.

The Artist and the Duke.

When Gustave Dore was at the height of his fame he visited England, and Blanchard Jerrold took him to a public dinner for one of the literary charities. The Duke of Cambridge was in the chair. Jerrold suggested to the secretary that he should arrange for his Grace to speak of the famous French [illegible] when proposing the toast of the [illegible].

Just were the good chairman on a slip of paper and [illegible] near the Duke eye. Whereupon Jerrold wrote "Distinguished Associate Gustave Dore," but unfortunately marked the accent over the surname's last letter so faintly that it was invisible to His Royal Highness. Presently, hot and anxious, the secretary came back to Jerrold. "By all means, says the Duke, but who the devil is Dore?"

Jerrold had to make this clear, and did so on another slip of paper, with the words "Gustave Dore is the celebrated French painter whose pictures are the admiration of the whole civilized world."

The Duke is too much a man of the world not to have accepted the snub with generous savoir faire, and he did full honor to Dore in a kindly and appreciative reference to the guest and did not forget the accent.

King as Grandfather.

The King is an exceedingly fond grandpapa. This fondness for his descendants is an inherited form of affection, the late Queen having been found up with her strong family ties. Recently the public was allowed a glimpse of one evidence of King Edward's love for his son's children. It is a collection of four miniatures of the Prince of Wales' little ones and formed the King's gift to his son and daughter-in-law. The portraits were painted by Mrs. Gertrude Massey and are exquisite examples of this artist's work in miniature.

Among the attractions billed for the Opera House are the two local entertainments next week. Harry Lindlay during the week following, Marietta La Dell Company, and Richard & Pringle's Minstrels later.

The money was paid over this week in the Gold Reefs deal to the local owners of the property, and the purchasers are now organizing a company to develop the claim.

Miss Cook's millinery opening will take place on Monday next, March 31. She has this year the largest and best selected stock of millinery and millinery supplies ever seen in Rat Portage. The most beautiful creations of the millinery art will be on exhibition Monday, so do not neglect to attend the opening.

HAVE COURAGE.

Have courage my brother and sister
As along life's pathway you go,
When climbing up the steep hillside
Or down in the valley below.

Have courage when thorns and rough brambles
Instead of its roses you find;
Let not disappointments distress you,
Press on and forget what's behind.

Have courage when storms overtake you,
When sailing on life's troubled wave,
For Jesus, the Master, is near you;
Heaven is mighty to save.

Have courage when fighting life's battle;
You never will die on the field
If you trust to your Father in heaven
He will provide helmet and shield.

A BOY'S LIFE SAVED!

A Grateful Mother Writes About The Rescue of Her Child.

Paine's Celery Compound

TRIUMPHED AFTER A PHYSICIAN'S FAILURE.

Mrs. G. Stone, of Eganville, Ont., grateful for the rescue of her little boy from death, writes as follows:

"I think it my duty to inform you of what Paine's Celery Compound has done for my little boy. He became very ill, and had the attendance of a physician, but no good results were apparent. The dangerous turns to which my boy was subject, became more frequent and worse in winter. He would become pale as death, feet and hands icy cold, and vomiting always followed. He seemed to be powerless, and for days could not lift his head from the pillow. After trying various kinds of medicine we decided to get Paine's Celery Compound for him. One bottle made him well, and since that time he has not been ill. I have every reason to believe he is permanently cured.

In face of such testimony, who can deny the fact that Paine's Celery Compound saves life? Hundreds of such letters as Mrs. Stone's are on file for the inspection of doubters.

When your children are nervous, fretful, despondent, sleepless, weak, rundown, have loss of appetite, slow circulation of blood and decreasing in weight, give them Paine's Celery Compound for a week or two, and note well the cheering results in returning health and vigor. We strongly urge the immediate use of the great medicine for all sickly and weak boys and girls.

AVOID DECEPTION AND LOSS.

See That the Name

DIAMOND DYES

Is on Every Pakage You Purchase

Some people use inferior dyes because they are in boxes like Diamond Dyes and are sold at the same price, but they are not the same. Diamond Dyes are the only dyes that are so good and so fast that it is safe to use them. Other dyes require fully three packages to give the same depth and richness of color that is obtained from one package of Diamond Dyes. These weak dyes cost as much as Diamond Dyes, and are sold at ten cents per package—the same price as the full strength Diamond Dyes.

Any woman who is urged by a merchant to buy the weak or adulterated dyes referred to, should strongly refuse to be swindled. Loss, trouble and irritation of temper can be avoided by always using the Diamond Dyes. Examine each package: when you see the name "Diamond Dyes" you are fully protected.

Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns richly colored on the best quality of Scotch Hessian, can be ordered by mail. Send for three sheets of designs to select from. Send your address to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited 200 Mountain St., Montreal, P. Q.

Wolseley as a Dead Shot.

Frank Scott, an Englishman has come to Canada after having been in the South African war. While he was in Lindsay, to which place he brought the belongings of Trooper Skinner of that town, who was killed by the Boers, and with whom Scott had been on terms of friendship. Interviewed by a reporter of The Watchman-Warder, Scott told a little story of Lord Wolseley that we do not think has previously been in print.

"I had a close call once before at El Teb, in Egypt," said Scott. "I was at a gun and turned to another man to take a shell when something whizzed past, just caught my chin, and struck the other man squarely in the centre of the forehead. The night we surprised El Teb, Gen. Wolseley told us that the first man who struck a light would be shot. We were riding along when an Irishman, second in front of me, a nice fellow, said, 'I'll have a smoke in spite of the devil.' He had hardly formed the sulphur from the match when a bullet from Wolseley's revolver went through his head. The general was one of the finest revolver shots in the army."

At the Battle of Waterloo.

The Duke of Wellington, respecting the battle of Waterloo, at Paris, July, 1815, said: "I have taken a good deal of pains with many of my battles, but I never took half the pains I did at Waterloo.

"By God! there never was in the realm of the world such a battle! 150,000 men hors de combat. Blucher lost 30,000—I can account for 20,000. The French may fairly be reckoned at a hundred thousand."

Arthur Upton (Colonel Greville Howard's brother) asked him: "What would you have done, sir, if Prussians had not come up?"

The Duke replied: "The Prussians were of the greatest use in pursuit, but if they had not come up, what should we have done. Why we should have held our ground. That's what we should have done.

"Our army was drawn up into a great many squares, many of these were diminished to a quarter, and the cavalry were riding amongst them. I saw it was necessary to present a length of line to the enemy. I made them fall into line, four deep, and we completely drove them back. That manoeuvre won the battle. It was never tried before."—"Links with the Past," by M. Charles Paget.

A Champion Tree.

A French paper reports a tree of the cypress family, in the state of Oaxaca, Mexico, that is 155 feet in circumference at six feet from the ground. It is not far from the famous Mitla ruins.
